Dear Candido:

Last year you introduced to us the Foresight Management Development Program; we enrolled 22 managers and supervisors, both upper and mid-level. Back then, we never thought that we were going to embark on such a profitable experience.

Based on the team concept that you taught us, our manager's and supervisor's communication, morale and attitudes have improved greatly. Manufacturing errors due to communication issues were costing our company about $2,000,000 per year. In just one year, our mistakes have been reduced by 50% and are still improving!

After going through the training process, we have seen significant behavior changes in key managers. People at all levels are contributing and submitting ideas to improve the processes and they are becoming more creative by using the brainstorming and team meetings techniques.

I recommend the Foresight MDP to any company who wants to stay competitive and who wants to take their managers to the next level of performance.

We thank you for your commitment, professionalism, enthusiasm, and coaching, which has made this program the success that it has been.

Sincerely,
